B) Brush the rust onto the floor
C) Cover the area with tape and continue using the bed
D) Place more linens over the rust

41.

Scenario

Condensation on a cold cup makes the outside slippery for a resident with weak grip. The care plan permits a nonslip cup sleeve.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Hold the cup for the entire drink
B) Remove the cold beverage
C) Dry the cup and apply the approved nonslip sleeve
D) Tell the resident to grip harder

42.

Scenario

During a bath, a resident asks to have the back washed last.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) End the bath immediately
B) Ask another resident to choose the order
C) Follow the safe preferred sequence
D) Refuse because the back must always be washed first 43.

A resident uses a laminated visual checklist to complete morning grooming steps. How should the nurse aide support this skill?

A) Remove the checklist after the first step
B) Complete every step while the resident watches
C) Rearrange the checklist without telling the resident
D) Place the checklist where the resident can see it and allow time for self-care

44.

Scenario

A resident becomes anxious because expected mail has not arrived and worries that an important bill may be missed.

What is the nurse aide's best response?

A) Promise that the mail will arrive within an hour
B) Listen, help check the known mail process, and report persistent anxiety
C) Tell the resident that bills are unimportant
D) Open another resident's mail to look for it

45.

Scenario

A resident suddenly reports severe eye pain and says lights have colored rings around them.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Keep the resident safe and report the sudden vision complaint immediately
B) Place an ice cube directly on the eye
C) Ask the resident to read small print
D) Wait until the next routine vision check

46.

Scenario

An electric bed continues rising after the resident releases the control button.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Press every button repeatedly
B) Place furniture beneath the bed frame
C) Ask the resident to keep using the control
D) Stop use, protect the resident, and report the malfunction immediately

47.

What should a nurse aide do with a single-use disposable wash basin after the assigned care is completed?

A) Clean it and place it with reusable basins
B) Give it to another resident
C) Save it for the next shift
D) Discard it according to facility procedure

48.

Scenario

At bedtime, a resident says a hair elastic feels tight and asks for it to be removed.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Tighten it so the hairstyle lasts
B) Cut the resident's hair instead
C) Remove the elastic gently and store or discard it as the resident directs
D) Tell the resident to wait until morning

49.

Scenario

At a resident sink, the hot-water handle spins freely and the water suddenly becomes extremely hot.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Continue with cold water from the same faucet
B) Ask the resident to test the temperature
C) Keep the resident away from the sink and report the plumbing hazard
D) Wrap the handle with a washcloth and continue

50.

Scenario

Before the nurse aide transports a sealed specimen, the name on the requisition does not match the name on the container.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Cross out one name and write the other
B) Stop and notify the nurse so the discrepancy can be resolved
C) Deliver it and let the laboratory decide
D) Ask the resident to choose which name is correct

51.

Scenario

A resident asks for privacy while using a personal tablet for online banking.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Stand close enough to read the password
B) Provide reasonable privacy and remain available if help is requested
C) Ask the resident to announce the account balance
D) Take the tablet to the nurses' station

52.

What should a nurse aide do before plugging in a resident-owned electric blanket?

A) Confirm that it has required facility approval and appears safe for use
B) Fold the cord beneath the mattress
C) Plug it into an extension cord
D) Turn it to the highest setting before placing it on the bed

53.

Scenario

A new electronic documentation device is placed on the unit, and the nurse aide has not been trained to use it.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Enter practice information into a resident's record
B) Ask a resident to explain the device
C) Request approved instruction before documenting with it
D) Use a coworker's password to explore the system

54.

Scenario

At bedtime, a resident says the pillow has bunched into a hard lump beneath the neck.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Add another lumpy pillow
B) Smooth or replace the pillow and check alignment and comfort
C) Tell the resident to sleep without a pillow
D) Place the pillow under the knees without asking

55.

Scenario

A resident becomes overwhelmed when three staff members ask questions at the same time.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Ask everyone to speak louder
B) Continue all questions so the resident gets used to it
C) Tell the resident to answer the fastest speaker
D) Reduce the stimulation, allow one speaker at a time, and give the resident time to respond 56.

Scenario

A resident uses a telephone relay service, and the relay operator speaks the resident's typed words aloud.

How should the nurse aide communicate?

A) Speak only to the relay operator
B) End the call because the resident is not speaking
C) Address the resident directly and use normal turn-taking through the relay
D) Ask the operator for private medical details

57.

Scenario

While emptying a resident's urinary drainage bag, the nurse aide notices a new strong foul odor.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Add deodorizer to the bag
B) Diagnose a urinary infection
C) Record the observation as directed and report the change to the nurse
D) Rinse the drainage tubing with soap

58.

Scenario

Staff remove a resident's sealed personal snack packages only because they want the room to look less cluttered. The snacks are permitted and safely stored.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Throw the snacks away before the resident notices
B) Protect the resident's possessions and report the inappropriate removal
C) Distribute the snacks to other residents
D) Hide the packages in a staff locker

59.

Scenario

A battery inside a resident's personal music player becomes swollen and unusually hot.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Press the battery flat
B) Keep the device out of use, protect the area, and report the battery hazard
C) Place the hot device beneath a pillow
D) Puncture the battery to release pressure

60.

Scenario

A coworker uses a resident's personal phone to make a private call without permission.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Ignore it if the call is short
B) Ask to use the phone next
C) Stop participating and report the misuse through the proper channel
D) Charge the resident for the call

61.

A resident has been trained to write with a foam pen grip. How should the nurse aide support independence?

A) Sign the resident's cards instead
B) Remove the grip after each word
C) Hold the resident's hand throughout writing
D) Place the adapted pen within reach and allow adequate time

62.

Scenario

A resident on a regular diet says the large soup spoon is uncomfortable and asks for a clean teaspoon.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Insist on the large spoon
B) Feed the resident without asking
C) Remove the soup
D) Provide the requested clean teaspoon

63.

Scenario

After spilling water, a resident says, "I cannot do anything right anymore."

What is the nurse aide's best response?

A) Agree that the resident needs full care
B) Acknowledge the frustration, offer respectful help, and report repeated negative statements
C) Tell the resident to stop complaining
D) Ask another resident to clean the spill

64.

Scenario

A resident explains that touching the top of the head is disrespectful in the resident's culture and asks caregivers to avoid it when possible.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Touch the head to show that no harm occurs
B) Ignore the request during all grooming
C) Ask the roommate whether the belief is valid
D) Respect the preference and communicate it to appropriate caregivers

65.

Scenario

A resident becomes tearful because a favorite long-running radio program has aired its final episode.

What is the nurse aide's best response?

A) Say that a radio program is not worth crying about
B) Acknowledge the sense of loss and invite the resident to talk if desired
C) Turn on a random program without asking
D) Tell the resident to avoid listening to radio

66.

Scenario

Before assisting a resident to the toilet, the nurse aide sees that the toilet-tissue holder is empty.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Place a fresh supply within reach before toileting
B) Begin toileting and search for tissue afterward
C) Ask the resident to use a towel
D) Borrow used tissue from another bathroom

67.

Scenario

During dressing, the nurse aide sees a tick attached to a resident's lower leg.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Burn the tick with a match
B) Avoid squeezing or pulling it and notify the nurse promptly
C) Cover the tick with lotion and continue dressing
D) Ask the resident to remove it with bare fingers

68.

Scenario

Maintenance says a ceiling lift was repaired, but an out-of-service tag is still attached.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Remove the tag and test the lift with the resident
B) Keep the lift out of use until authorized staff verify that it has been released for service
C) Ask the resident to operate the lift
D) Cover the tag and continue the transfer

69.

When may a nurse aide use a gait belt to keep a seated resident from getting up?

A) Whenever the unit is short-staffed
B) Never; a gait belt is a mobility aid and must not be used as a restraint
C) When the resident is near the nurses' station
D) Whenever a family member requests it

70.

Scenario

A resident notices lint on a clean jacket collar before leaving for an activity and asks for it to be removed.

What should the nurse aide do?

A) Use an approved lint-removal method and check the resident's appearance

B) Wet the entire jacket

C) Cut off the collar

D) Tell the resident that appearance does not matter

1. Correct: C - Keep the required mask on and use an approved alternative such as writing or live captioning

Required protective equipment should remain in place. An accessible alternative preserves both infection control and accurate communication.

2. Correct: D - Serve the milk on the side as requested

The resident may choose a safe food-presentation preference within the diet order. Uniform service is not more important than resident choice.

3. Correct: D - Reposition the wedge according to the care plan and check the resident's comfort

Correct placement maintains the planned support while a comfort check confirms that the resident is not left in a strained position.

4. Correct: D - Decline to attest to unobserved facts and notify the nurse or authorized receiver

The aide must not certify conditions that were not observed. Routing the delivery to an authorized person protects record accuracy and package handling.

5. Correct: B - Placing the curved end behind the heel and sliding the foot into the shoe without forcing

The shoehorn reduces bending and guides the heel into the shoe. It should not be used to pull on toes or tighten laces.

6. Correct: A - Stay with the resident and activate the facility's emergency response immediately

A reported cleaner ingestion requires immediate trained help. The aide should not induce vomiting or give food unless directed by qualified emergency personnel.

7. Correct: C - Moisture increases the risk of electrical shock

Water conducts electricity and can increase shock risk at a plug connection. Hands and plugs should be dry before electrical equipment is connected.

8. Correct: D - Switch it off if safe, keep it out of use, and report the hazard

A burning odor can indicate an electrical malfunction. The device should not be covered, used, or placed near oxygen.

9. Correct: B - Acknowledge the embarrassment and discuss available resident-chosen dining supports

Validation and voluntary supports address the resident's concern without forcing public eating or taking over the meal.

10. Correct: C - Listen privately and report the ongoing sleep concern so options can be explored

Repeated sleep disruption affects well-being and should be communicated. The aide listens without blaming the roommate or promising a room change.

11. Correct: C - Keep the resident off the mattress and report the need for safe replacement

An exposed spring can puncture skin and cannot be made safe with an extra sheet or by turning the mattress.

12. Correct: A - Report the security breach through the proper channel

A secured-door code controls access to residents and care areas. Sharing it with an unauthorized person creates a safety and confidentiality risk that must be reported.

13. Correct: A - Return the attachment to the resident's hand and allow another attempt

One slip does not mean the resident has lost the skill. Repositioning the aid and allowing a retry supports practice and independence.

14. Correct: B - Keep people away and report the electrical and fall hazard for safe correction

Water, electricity, and a cable across a walking path create combined shock and fall risks. The aide should control access and obtain safe correction.

15. Correct: C - Use respectful adult language and address any repeated staff behavior

Residents have the right to adult, dignified communication. The resident's stated preference should be followed, and a repeated pattern should be addressed.

16. Correct: C - Refasten the buttons correctly and check comfort

Correct alignment restores comfort and appearance without damaging the resident's clothing. Covering the problem leaves fabric pulling against the body.

17. Correct: A - Remove the tea bag safely and place it on the saucer

The resident may control the strength of a permitted beverage. Safe removal follows the request without changing the drink to something unchosen.

18. Correct: A - Keep the recliner out of use and report the malfunction

An unexpectedly closing footrest can pinch or crush a resident's legs. The mechanism should not be braced or tested with the resident.

19. Correct: B - Shave around the sideburns as requested

Grooming should preserve the resident's chosen appearance. Staff or family preference does not replace the resident's direction.

20. Correct: D - Position the strap as directed and supervise the resident's own effort

The restorative device supports active bed mobility. Pulling the resident or completing the movement removes independence and may cause injury.

21. Correct: D - Protect the heel from pressure and report the change promptly

A new cloudy blister is an abnormal skin finding. The aide protects it from further pressure and reports without opening or treating it independently.

22. Correct: A - Help route the request to the appropriate facility office or staff member

The resident should be able to obtain accurate information about personal charges. The aide facilitates access without inventing financial records.

23. Correct: B - Secure or remove the tray as directed and make sure it does not trap the resident

A removable tray must be managed according to the equipment and care directions. It is not a restraint and should not pinch or confine the resident.

24. Correct: A - Clean gently with warm water and a soft cloth, then rinse and dry the area

Gentle cleaning removes residue without injuring delicate skin. Thorough rinsing and drying prevent retained cleanser and moisture.

25. Correct: C - Keep people away and report the combined spill and electrical hazard immediately

Leaking liquid above an outlet creates both slip and electrical danger. The area should be restricted until trained staff correct it.

26. Correct: A - Place the towel across the lap to preserve warmth and privacy

Covering areas not being washed protects dignity and comfort during bathing. Soiled linen must not be used.

27. Correct: D - Avoid touching the area unnecessarily and report the finding promptly

New painful fluid-filled blisters are an abnormal skin finding. The aide observes and reports without opening, rubbing, or treating them independently.

28. Correct: A - Help restore the resident's private audio setting as directed

The accidental speaker output exposes a private conversation. Restoring the resident's chosen setting protects confidentiality and communication access.

29. Correct: B - Pause the departure and verify the destination with the nurse or activities staff

A destination mismatch must be resolved before the resident leaves the unit. The aide should not guess or alter the record independently.

30. Correct: A - Help with the chosen cardigan and keep the photograph secure in the pocket

The garment and photograph support personal choice and identity. The aide helps protect the resident's selected property.

31. Correct: D - Stay with the resident and summon immediate nursing or emergency help

Sudden inability to swallow saliva can threaten airway safety and requires immediate help. Food, fluid, or lying flat can increase risk.

32. Correct: A - Support the resident safely, stop the movement, and call for help

Sudden pain with a cracking sound may indicate injury. The aide prevents further movement and obtains help without testing the limb.

33. Correct: C - Refer the question to the nurse and relay the family's request

Explaining why a medication was started requires licensed clinical information. The aide appropriately connects the family with the nurse.

34. Correct: B - With the sealed container in the specimen section and paperwork in the separate outer pocket

Separate compartments protect paperwork from contamination while keeping it with the correct sealed specimen.

35. Correct: A - Keep the resident out of the bed and report the entrapment hazard

A wide mattress-frame gap can trap part of the resident's body. Towels or pillows are not approved repairs.

36. Correct: D - Read the form accurately and refer questions about its meaning through the proper staff process

Accurate reading provides access without altering the content or pressuring the resident. Questions requiring explanation should go to the appropriate staff member.

37. Correct: A - Support the resident's control of the key according to facility procedure

A permitted locked suitcase and its key are the resident's property. Staff should not seize the key or open the suitcase without authorization.

38. Correct: D - Decline the offer and report the conflict according to facility policy

A sales commission can bias staff recommendations and exploit the aide's trusted role. It should be declined and disclosed.

39. Correct: C - Respect the decision and ensure there is no retaliation

Participation in a satisfaction survey is voluntary. Services and activities must not be used to pressure a response.

40. Correct: A - Keep the bed out of use and report the need for safe inspection or replacement

Flaking rust can soil linens and indicate damaged equipment. Tape or extra linens do not correct the underlying hazard.

41. Correct: C - Dry the cup and apply the approved nonslip sleeve

Removing condensation and using the planned grip aid supports independent drinking while reducing a drop or spill risk.

42. Correct: C - Follow the safe preferred sequence

The resident may direct the order of ordinary bathing steps when hygiene and safety are maintained.

43. Correct: D - Place the checklist where the resident can see it and allow time for self-care

The visual checklist supports sequencing and independence. Reordering or removing it can interfere with a learned routine.

44. Correct: B - Listen, help check the known mail process, and report persistent anxiety

Practical accurate support can reduce uncertainty without making a delivery promise. Persistent anxiety should be shared with the team.

45. Correct: A - Keep the resident safe and report the sudden vision complaint immediately

Sudden severe eye pain with colored rings around lights requires prompt nursing attention. The aide does not test or treat the eye independently.

46. Correct: D - Stop use, protect the resident, and report the malfunction immediately

A bed that moves after control release can injure or entrap the resident. It must be taken out of use rather than tested repeatedly.

47. Correct: D - Discard it according to facility procedure

A single-use basin is not designed for cleaning, storage, or use by another resident. It should be discarded through the approved waste process.

48. Correct: C - Remove the elastic gently and store or discard it as the resident directs

Removing a tight accessory protects comfort and follows the resident's grooming preference. Hair should not be cut without permission.

49. Correct: C - Keep the resident away from the sink and report the plumbing hazard

A failed temperature control can cause a burn. The sink should not be used or tested on the resident until repaired.

50. Correct: B - Stop and notify the nurse so the discrepancy can be resolved

Specimen identity must be correct before transport. The aide should not alter labels or ask the resident to adjudicate a documentation mismatch.

51. Correct: B - Provide reasonable privacy and remain available if help is requested

Online financial activity is private. The aide supports access without viewing passwords or removing the resident's device.

52. Correct: A - Confirm that it has required facility approval and appears safe for use

Resident-owned electrical equipment must meet facility safety requirements before use. Hidden cords, extension cords, and maximum heat add risk.

53. Correct: C - Request approved instruction before documenting with it

Accurate records require competency with the device. Practice in a resident record or use of another person's password is unsafe and unethical.

54. Correct: B - Smooth or replace the pillow and check alignment and comfort

A hard lump can strain the neck and interrupt rest. Adjusting the support and reassessing comfort addresses the problem directly.

55. Correct: D - Reduce the stimulation, allow one speaker at a time, and give the resident time to respond

Limiting competing voices makes communication manageable and lowers distress. Louder or faster group questioning increases overload.

56. Correct: C - Address the resident directly and use normal turn-taking through the relay

The relay operator transmits the resident's communication but does not replace the resident. Direct address preserves dignity and conversational control.

57. Correct: C - Record the observation as directed and report the change to the nurse

A new odor is an objective change to document and report. The aide does not diagnose infection or place substances into the drainage system.

58. Correct: B - Protect the resident's possessions and report the inappropriate removal

Permitted safely stored snacks belong to the resident. Appearance preferences of staff do not justify confiscating property.

59. Correct: B - Keep the device out of use, protect the area, and report the battery hazard

A swollen hot battery can leak, burn, or ignite. It should not be pressed, punctured, or placed near bedding.

60. Correct: C - Stop participating and report the misuse through the proper channel

Using resident property without permission violates boundaries and property rights. The behavior should not be normalized or concealed.

61. Correct: D - Place the adapted pen within reach and allow adequate time

The foam grip enables the resident's own writing. Signing or guiding the hand unnecessarily removes independence.

62. Correct: D - Provide the requested clean teaspoon

A safe ordinary utensil preference can improve comfort and self-feeding. The resident need not accept a larger spoon or lose the meal.

63. Correct: B - Acknowledge the frustration, offer respectful help, and report repeated negative statements

Validation and practical support protect self-esteem. Repeated global negative statements are useful for the team to know.

64. Correct: D - Respect the preference and communicate it to appropriate caregivers

The aide responds to the resident's stated cultural value without testing or judging it. Sharing the preference supports consistent respectful care.

65. Correct: B - Acknowledge the sense of loss and invite the resident to talk if desired

A familiar program can carry routine and meaning. Listening is more supportive than ridicule, avoidance, or an unwanted substitution.

66. Correct: A - Place a fresh supply within reach before toileting

Preparing necessary supplies before toileting protects dignity, hygiene, and timely assistance.

67. Correct: B - Avoid squeezing or pulling it and notify the nurse promptly

The aide should not attempt an improvised tick removal method. Prompt reporting allows safe removal and follow-up according to policy.

68. Correct: B - Keep the lift out of use until authorized staff verify that it has been released for service

An out-of-service tag remains controlling until an authorized release is confirmed. Testing with a resident is unsafe.

69. Correct: B - Never; a gait belt is a mobility aid and must not be used as a restraint

A gait belt supports planned movement and is not designed to confine a seated resident. Staffing or family preference does not justify restraint misuse.

70. Correct: A - Use an approved lint-removal method and check the resident's appearance

Removing lint as requested supports grooming and personal presentation without damaging the resident's clothing.
